

Automotive

The Applus group is a recognized leader in the automotive industry, pioneering many industry firsts in next-generation vehicle inspection and testing technologies. Applus was the first company ever to implement several sophisticated capabilities to enhance the quality—and integrity—of its programs. These include:

We provide best-in-industry products for numerous emissions testing programs. These products include gas analyzers, diesel opacity meters, driver safety telematics, next-generation on-board diagnostics and vehicle information platform technologies. Applus automotive solutions also improve operational efficiency and reduce both costs and risks for clients throughout the automotive industry. Our diverse product line makes Applus the partner of choice for improving vehicle safety and maintenance profiles.